New Jersey Roofing Contractor Completes Re-cover Roof Project For Acme Nissan in South Brunswick, NJ

South Brunswick, NJ November, 2011 – Joseph David Roofing today announced the completion of a major roof repair for Acme Nissan in South Brunswick, NJ. Their service area had been experiencing severe leaks for years, despite numerous attempts by other companies to repair the roof. After spending large sums of money with another roofing contractor, Acme Nissan was fed up. Joseph David Roofing Company was tasked with solving the leak issues once and for all.

Because the building had the original roof on it, Joseph David Roofing suggested a complete re-cover system. This would be a thorough way to address all potential leaks while keeping costs down. The scope of work consisted of a layer of 3/8" EPS roof insulation. Over the insulation, they installed a new Mule-Hide 60 mil TPO white membrane roof system complete with necessary flashings.

Acme Nissan has been completely leak-free since the work was finished. Re-covering a roof is often a highly effective solution to major leaks, while offering a substantial savings to the customer compared to re-roofing. It is also environmentally advantageous, as the materials are not discarded into dumpsters or landfills, but are employed to strengthen the new layer of roofing.
