A Note From Joe

Hello Everyone,

Though the first day of spring has come and gone, we are still receiving snow here in NJ and hearing a lot about storms and natural disasters in the news. Unfortunately, many home and business owners will have to make repairs or rebuild in the wake of these storms. Following the trend of other storm areas, we suspect a lot of these jobs will feature metal roofs. These are popular in this situation because they are able to withstand strong winds.

In this newsletter you will see

Hello,

Welcome to the Spring edition of our quarterly newsletter! I hope you found some useful information in our previous issues. As always, you can revisit them on our website. Below you'll find the latest updates from Joseph David Roofing!

Consider a Metal Roof

In recent years, increased natural disasters, among other factors, have led many home and business owners to opt for metal roofs over traditional roofing materials. Have you ever been curious about the benefits of metal roofs? Below are some factors to consider when deciding whether or not this type of roof is right for you.

Longevity: Metal roofs last longer than many other types of roofs! They hold up anywhere from 40 to 70 years, as opposed to asphalt roofs which last up to 20. This could offset higher material costs and make the upfront payment a wiser investment in the long run.

Strength: In the wake of recent natural disasters, metal roofs have been popular among rebuilders. This is because they won't catch fire from falling embers, and they can withstand winds up to 140 mph. If you are apprehensive of storm damage, this might be something to consider.

Energy Efficiency and Sustainability: Metal roofs can reflect sunlight, keeping heat out of your house and often resulting in lower summer energy bills. They can also be installed over top of existing roofs in some cases, reducing landfill waste and allowing for quick installation.

Noise: Metal roofs are noisier than other roof options, especially when it rains. While this may dissuade some entirely from going with metal, there are ways to reduce the sounds heard indoors. This can be done using various types of underlayment or ceiling insulation.

Aesthetics: Though there are many practical reasons to commit to a metal roof, their recent spike in popularity can also be explained by aesthetic appeal. Metal roofs look sleek and are unique in many areas; having one could set your building apart. You might even become a trendsetter!
