New Jersey Roofing Contractor Announces Launch of New User-Friendly Website

Linden, NJ January 2014--Joseph David Roofing, a growing commercial roofing company in New Jersey, announced the completion of their new website yesterday. Offering a fresh design and improved navigation, the company hopes that visitors will enjoy the user-friendly overhaul to their previous website.

The new version is more customer-oriented, with content that helps consumers make the best decisions for their roofing needs. Visitors to the site can access in-depth information about a broad range of products and services offered. They now have access to a wealth of resources related to the roofing industry. In addition to featuring more content, including a new blog, the website is more streamlined and modern; from the home page, customers can easily request a quote or contact the company.

"Our company has grown and evolved so much in the last few years, we felt it was time to upgrade our website," said Joseph David, President of Joseph David Roofing. "We hope our customers find it useful and informative. We want to be a resource for them, to share our years of experience and insight."
